the Vintage Market Guide

Hi there,

After a couple of genuinely punishing weekends, the heat is finally easing, and this one looks like it will stay below thirty degrees. In flea-market terms that is almost perfect: warm enough to linger, cool enough to truly enjoy the hunt. And if you have been wondering whether the markets wind down once high summer arrives, the answer is a happy no. Switzerland's flea-market summer keeps right on going, weekend after weekend, all through July and August.

That makes this a lovely weekend to get back out there at a gentler pace. A few favourites for your map: on Saturday evening the Night-Flohmarkt in Kloten trades the midday sun for the cool of dusk, browsing by the last of the daylight. On Sunday the Bodensee-Flohmarkt & Brocante in Altenrhein sits right on Lake Constance, with a swim never far from the stalls, while the Flohmarkt Grosse Halle in Bern keeps everything comfortably indoors and in the shade.

TVMG - Market Diaries

Brocante des Quais, Grandson: one of just two editions a year, right on the shore of Lake Neuchâtel, and we were there in the middle of the heatwave. The drive follows the lakes and the vineyard villages of Twann and Ligerz, and above the quays the Château de Grandson keeps watch.

Grosser Flohmarkt at the Panorama-Center, Thun: an unpromising spot by the motorway that delivered, spacious and well ordered, with a broad, rural-tinged mix of vintage and antiques. Despite the fierce heat, sellers and shoppers alike stayed in good cheer, with French and Italian in the air between the stalls.

Zentralmarkt at the Dampfzentrale, Bern: a flea market where half the crowd drifts between the stalls in swimwear straight out of the Aare, young, urban and carefully curated. It sits right beside the Marzilibad on the river, with plenty of clothing, jewellery and quality one-off pieces.

New: Mira, your WhatsApp scout

A few weeks ago you helped us name our WhatsApp Virtual Scout, and you chose Mira. She is a concierge who helps you find flea markets and brocantes near you, right inside WhatsApp, with no app to download and no sign-up.

We have spent the last few weeks quietly building her, and now we would like to open her up, starting with you. Before any wider launch, we are inviting our newsletter readers to be the very first to really use her and tell us honestly what works and what still needs work.

You can say hello to Mira here: wa.me/41784483687. Ask her what is on this weekend, near a particular town, or on a given day, and see how she does. Then just reply to this email and let us know what you think. Your notes genuinely shape what she becomes next.

Until next week,
