

 Welcome to September: 52 markets waiting this weekend!

the Vintage Market Guide

Hi there,

Welcome to September: long walks between the stalls, milder mornings and brocantes under the first autumn leaves. Summer is not quite over, but the autumn market calendar is filling up again, and this weekend there are already 52 markets to choose from.

September starts beautifully in the canton of Vaud: the Brocante du Château L'Isle runs from Friday to Sunday in the castle courtyard on the Venoge, until 19:00 on Friday and Saturday and until 17:00 on Sunday. Three days for a single market is a rare thing here. On the other side of the country, the Markthalle Basel opens twice: the night flea market under the dome from 17:00 on Saturday, and the hall flea market from 11:00 on Sunday. Browsing in the evening is the exception here, and that alone makes Saturday worth it!

The Flohmarkt Gipsgrueb in Ehrendingen in Aargau is brand new, and it is the very first edition. On Sunday you can rummage across the grounds of the former cement works from 10:00 to 15:00. And if you want an early start on Saturday: the Flohmarkt im Mosergarten in Schaffhausen opens at 8:00 and is one of only six editions in the whole year.

And there is something else new this weekend: the website of «The Vintage Market Guide» went online today! After weeks of market dates, databases, texts and countless small details, TVMG finally has a proper home on the web. Further down, we share our first impressions of the new site.

TVMG - Market Diaries

Quartierflohmi Bottmingen: From garden to garden, through driveways, courtyards and little side streets. The walk from one stall to the next is already half the pleasure here, and you find yourself looking at the houses and into the gardens almost as curiously as at the stalls.

Watch the reel →

Flohmarkt St. Mangen: Quarter to seven, the lanes still half dark, and the first boxes opening everywhere. The market wraps around the church, with the towers of the abbey district above the roofs and a café right in the middle. Watching a flea market wake up has a charm all of its own.

The Vintage Market Guide is online 🎉

Today is quite a big day for us: the new website of The Vintage Market Guide goes live. What was once a long list of market dates, places, and ideas a few weeks ago is slowly becoming what we set out to build from the start: a place to discover flea markets, brocantes, and antiques fairs across Switzerland, and to plan your next market day. At launch, you will already find the current markets there with date, place, and opening hours, gathered clearly and prepared so you don't have to search through ten different organiser pages, Facebook posts, and event calendars first.

DIESES WOCHENENDE	NÄCHSTE 7 TAGE	DIESEN MONAT

A lot has changed visually, too. We did not want a classic event platform full of cards and boxes, but something closer to a modern printed market guide: calm, clear, and with enough room for the markets themselves.

And this is only the beginning. More features, markets, and content will follow in the coming weeks. But today we are simply very glad to be able to open thevintagemarketguide.com at last.

Have a look around, try the site out, and do tell us what you think. If something is missing, something does not work, or you simply have an idea: reply directly to this email. We read every message.

Until next week,

Your Vintage Market Guide Team
