❄️ Brocante de Fribourg, Züri Brocki Night & 23 more markets!

the Vintage Market Guide

Hi there,

Winter is starting to make its presence felt this week, with wind, rain and fresh snow in the mountains. ❄️ Luckily, plenty of markets are now taking place indoors, in halls, event spaces and Brockis (Swiss second-hand shops). Whatever the weather, there are still treasures to be found!

Our highlight this weekend is the Brocante de Fribourg at Forum Fribourg. On Saturday and Sunday, you'll find antiques, brocante treasures and vintage pieces, from Louis XV furniture to mid-century design. We'll be there ourselves on Sunday and are really looking forward to it!

On Saturday, the Wetziker Hallenflohmarkt returns for its second edition, this time at the Kronensaal on Bahnhofstrasse. In St. Gallen, the Hinterhof Flohmarkt offers a mix of design pieces, vintage finds and second-hand fashion. And over in Root, there's something a little different: the Pop Up Flohmi Home of Souls, organised by the woman behind the fundus Flohmarkt.

In Basel, the flea market at Petersplatz is back after its break for the Autumn Fair. And if you haven't had your fill of browsing by Saturday evening, there's more to come! For the fourth edition of Züri Brocki Night, the Salvation Army Brocki on Geroldstrasse will stay open until 11 pm, with freshly restocked shelves and a prize wheel from 6 pm.

On Sunday, vinyl enthusiasts have the Zürcher Schallplattenbörse to look forward to. And in Baden, you can combine two events in one trip: Paul mags, a three-day Christmas pop-up at Villa Paul and the Stanzerei, brings together crafts, design and a selection of vintage stalls. On Sunday, it's joined by the Baden Bazaar, an indoor creative flea market featuring handmade goods, second-hand finds and vintage pieces. Both have a more creative feel than a traditional flea market, but if you love beautiful design and handmade pieces as much as old treasures, a trip to Baden could be well worth it!

TVMG - Market Diaries

Brian's Flohmi Uster: The Stadthofsaal was buzzing: stall after stall packed close together, crowds of visitors and a colourful jumble of everything a real flea market has to offer. This is a place for a proper rummage, because exciting vintage finds keep turning up among all the everyday things, and in the run-up to Christmas there are Christmas decorations by the boxful.

New: information for sellers 🏷️

There's one question we hear again and again: how do I get a stall? Many of you don't just browse, you sell too. That's why our market pages now have a new For sellers section.

It's meant to show at a glance whether private sellers, professional dealers or both can take part, how registration works and what the stall fees are. We're building this section right now and want the information to come straight from the organisers wherever possible.

Do you run a market yourself? Then just reply to this email and send us your stall booking details: registration link or contact, stall fees, who can take part and from when registrations open. We'll add them to your market page free of charge!

Until next week,
Your Vintage Market Guide Team
